This is just another quick cash grab for codeclub. They never fixed the combat, Or the piss poor user interface. They just keep adding more servers, So stupid people will run out and buy premium, and silver to start a deed. And then a few months later, You can watch the deeds disband constantly, Until there is nothing left but a ton of rotting houses, and fences. Because there is no player economy, They killed that when they removed player transactions, and Traders. So no economy means you can't pay your premium or deed upkeep unless you spend real money on codeclubs overpriced silver. Honestly you would get better value from a stinking facebook game, Than from this dead end game. Do yourself a favor, and read the longer reviews, They tell extensive stories of mismanagement that has gone on for fifteen years. Don't fall for the hype of building without limits, It's just not true, There are limits, And most houses look very similar.
